

Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus
Director General, World Health Organization
Avenue Appia 20, 1211 Geneva, Switzerland

Dear Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus

We, the 47 undersigned members of the cross-party parliamentary groups for Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) in Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland write to you today to express our gratitude and appreciation of the important work that the WHO is undertaking to make safe abortion available to all women and girls. In particular, we would like to thank you and the WHO for the development of the new safe abortion care guidelines that were released earlier this spring.

We know that women and girls risk their lives and their health when abortions are performed in illegal and unsafe ways. The vast majority of the estimated 25 million unsafe abortions that are performed annually, take place in poor parts of the world. We have known for a long time that a large proportion of those who die from unsafe abortions live in low- and middle-income countries. The global death toll is estimated at around 23,000 a year. Many more are injured and suffer life-threatening consequences as a result of unsafe abortions.

Given the WHO's influence, we expect the guidelines to contribute to changing this deeply unjust and unfair situation. The guidelines will contribute to more abortions being carried out using a safe method, appropriate to the duration of the pregnancy and assisted by someone with the necessary information and skills. They will contribute to safer procedures, protect the health of women and girls and prevent deaths caused by unsafe abortions.

We also want to express that we are deeply concerned about the domestic developments related to the constitutional right to safe abortion in the U.S. and the domino-effects a negative decision in the Supreme Court may have on access to safe abortion in other parts of the world. There will always be women and girls who wish to end their pregnancy for a number of different reasons. Strict abortion laws do not change this reality. As a result, there is a very high risk that they will be performed in unsafe ways.

Dear Dr. Tedros. We believe in the right of every individual to make decisions about their own body, life and future. We stand behind you and the WHO's efforts to increase access to safe abortion and protect sexual and reproductive rights globally. We salute your commitment to support countries to implement the new guidelines and strengthen national programs related to contraception, family planning and abortion services. We promise to do everything we can to ensure that access to safe abortion remains on the Nordic, European and international agenda.

Yours sincerely
